N TO MEXICO CITY, IS CRY OF VICTORIOUS REBELS, AS THEY PREPARE FOR BATTLE

en. Villa Announces Program for Hard Campaign; Now Is in Possession of Northern Part of Republic

JUAREZ, Mex., Nov. 30.—Northern Mexico, embracing the ates of Sonora, Chihuahua, Coahuila, Nuevo Leon and amaulipas, and including the territory from the border to a ne 500 miles southward, will be wholly under the authority the rebel forces within two weeks. The forces which are ghting Huerta will then join at Guadalajara with a view of arching on to Mexico City.

Gen. Francisco Villa, the rebel leader, so announced today. s campaign, he said, contemplated not only the capture of ihuahua City, but also the spreading of the rebel, or Constitutionalist, authority further south.

He is to be joined in the interior later by General Carranza, e head of the revolutionary movement.

o far as the north is concerned, Villa said the campaign is between 14,500 federal troops, mostly in garrisons, and 20,200 rebels, or Constitutionalists, in garrisons or roaming country.

he approximate strength of the opposing forces in the north, as gathered from official sources by Villa, and made known by him today, is:

Strength of Two Armies.

t Guaymas, Sonora, 3,000 federals, commanded by General Pedro [illegible].

t Chihuahua City, 5,000 federals, commanded by General Salvador Mercado.

t Saltillo and Monclova, Coahuila, [illegible] federals.

t Monterey, Nuevo Leon, 2,000 federals.

cattered, 1,000 federals.

pposed to the federals and their positions are:

t [illegible], about 5,000 rebels under command of General Carranza, head of Constitutionalists.

t Juarez and en route to Chihuahua City, 15,000 rebels, commanded by [illegible].

outh of Chihuahua City, 1,500 rebels, commanded by General Manuel Chao.

cattered at other cities, [illegible].

[illegible] [preparation] for the advance on Chihuahua City, 3,500 troops with 16 machine guns and equipment which filled [illegible] trains had left Juarez up to today had reached a point 30 miles south.

a expects to join his men within a [illegible] days and if possible to keep open [illegible] and telegraph service behind him. said he would be in Chihuahua within 10 days. But the capture the city, he insisted, will be only ncident of a further advance, later conjunction with Carranza and r rebel leaders.

lla pointed out that the only important points along the United States border not held by the rebels now are Nuevo Laredo, opposite Laredo, Tex., and Piedras Negras, opposite Eagle Pass, Tex., and that his forces already had captured every city in the north except Guaymas, Chihuahua City, Saltillo, Monclova and Monterey.

On to Mexico City.

"We will move right on to Mexico City," said Villa. "That is our destination. Our forces are working together. The troops now in Sonora will move southward, attacking Guaymas on the way. Those in the east now centered around Victoria will move southwest, while I will go right down through the heart of the country. On the way I will take Chihuahua, where I will be in command within 10 days. Then I will join the eastern and western wings of our army at Guadalajara. Combined, we will march to Mexico City."

Chihuahua City has been cut off from communication for more than two weeks. At that time it was said the federal forces had made every preparation to oppose the rebel attack. Almost all the food supplies have been exhausted.

Francisco Escudero, minister of foreign relations in Carranza's cabinet, on arriving from Hermosillo today, [illegible] with General Villa [illegible] it practically has been decided to give the capital to Juarez and that it would be conducted much as was Madero's capital after the success of the revolution against Diaz."

EXICO HAS NO FEAR OF INTERVENTION NOW

Huerta May Force Loans to Raise Money to Carry on War

EXICO CITY, Nov. 30.—The possible treatment of the Mexican question President Wilson's coming message aroused considerable interest ng the Mexican government officials, but there is a notable absence of m because of the deep-rooted conviction that neither intervention nor supplying of arms and ammunition to the rebels will be recommended. The financial question is regarded comparative complacency. General Huerta does not regard the lack oney as a vital blow to his administration. His friends point out although the government may be rupt, the provisional president is from being without funds and is likely to be entirely without money ong as private institutions and corporations possess funds. They are of opinion that the president will not for the sake of what he considers t, to resort to forced loans. Im[illegible] persuasive methods already have used, and, in several cases, have e marked similarity to the forced s system.

CARRANZA AWAITING CHIHUAHUA ATTACK

Will Make No Statement on Relations With U. S. Pending Hale's Report

HERMOSILLO, Sonora, Mex., Nov. 30.—General Carranza and his advisers appeared today to have assumed a policy of awaiting the result of Francisco Villa's attack on Chihuahua and the outcome of William Bayard Hale's conferences with President Wilson at Washington before making either a military or a diplomatic move.

The success or failure of Villa's attempt to capture the Chihuahua state capital is expected to decide in what direction the provisional capital will be moved.

It is considered improbable that Carranza will make any further declaration concerning Constitutionalist relations with the United States until the result of Mr. Hale's conference with President Wilson has been made known, although before he left Nogales General Carranza promised a full statement dealing with the attitude of the Constitutionalist revolutionists, both in regard to domestic affairs and diplomatic negotiations.

Apparently the statement has been postponed indefinitely.

Passenger traffic was opened today as far south as Maytorena, the insurgent base above Guaymas.

Rebel Chief Alters Plans.

A party of Constitutionalist civil officials and army officers left today for Culiacan, capital of Sinaloa, to reorganize the military and civil governments of the state. Mazatlan, a west coast seaport, is the only spot in the state not controlled by the insurgents.

Before the rebel victories around Juarez, General Carranza had announced that he would make this reorganization trip himself, so the departure of Miguel A. Robles, secretary of state of Sinaloa, and Colonel Eduardo F. Hale, military commander in the state, was taken as an indication that another plan had been made for the transfer of the Constitutionalist headquarters [illegible].

Carranza announced last week that probably he would enter Chihuahua, but he did not explain his route. This might be either by way of Sinaloa and Tepic and thence forth along the line of the National railway, or directly over the Sonora-Chihuahua desert, where there are no railroads for more than 200 miles. It is believed that the latter route has been selected. The insurgent chief announced several days ago that he would not pass through the United States even with permission from Washington.

WOMEN DEMAND BALLOT AT ONCE

URGE PRESIDENT WILSON TO MAKE IT ISSUE

Sen. Helen Ring Robinson of Colorado Takes Prominent Part in Conference

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—A week's campaign by the National American Woman Suffrage association to procure the adoption of a constitutional amendment to enfranchise women was launched today at a mass meeting. It was the formal opening of the forty-fifth annual convention of the association.

An assemblage which packed the theater listened for nearly three hours to discussions by conspicuous advocates of the woman's movement. Suspended above the drop curtain was a huge yellow banner bearing the legend: "We demand an amendment to the United States constitution enfranchising women."

The association adopted, almost unanimously, resolutions introduced by Mrs. Helen Ring Robinson, a member of the state senate of Colorado, calling upon President Wilson, in his forthcoming message to congress, to adopt the woman suffrage constitutional amendment as an administration measure and to urge congress to take immediate and favorable action upon it, urging the senate to pass the amendment and asking the house to create a committee on woman suffrage. The only protest was voiced by one of the delegates from Louisiana, backed by a small following. The opposing delegates, however, were not even given an opportunity to explain the reasons for their attitude.

Dr. Shaw Presides.

Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, president of the organization, presided and in her opening address voiced the belief that a "deliverance, a speedy deliverance of women is about to come through the action of the American congress and through the president of the United States."

Introducing Mary Anderson, Margaret Hinchey and Rose Winslow, all women industrial workers, Dr. Shaw said:

"The right of the people to a voice in their own government is the one point to which we are directing our efforts. We know no politics, no political parties. We stand for no class [illegible], but only for a voice for all the people in their own affairs."

1,000 EXPECTED AT ROADS CONVENTION

Meeting Here Next January Will Be of Importance to Entire State

The fourth annual convention of the Colorado Good Roads association will be held at Colorado Springs January 15 and 16. For this meeting the railroads have been asked, and probably will grant a rate of one fare for the round trip from all state points.

The convention will be one of the most important ever held in this state. This is because Colorado is now facing the problem of devising some means of insuring the continuation of its system of state aid for road building. After January 1, 1915, the fund available for state aid to the counties is less than $2,000 per county. This is insufficient to carry on the work as now outlined and under way. Unless something is done during the coming year to furnish the proper financial aid to continue road work in Colorado no measure can be enacted for this purpose which would become effective before 1918.

Half Mill Levy Proposed.

It has been proposed that a bill providing for a half mill levy for road building purposes be initiated. Such a measure is favored in many of the counties of the state, and the southern counties of Colorado at a recent convention in Pueblo passed resolutions asking the Colorado Good Roads association to take up this question.

This matter will be thoroughly discussed at the convention here, and on the decision of that gathering depends the future action to be taken.

It is not unlikely that the County Commissioners' association of the state will also meet at Colorado Springs at the time of the good roads convention. The commissioners are much interested in the proposed half mill levy for state road purposes and they will take a prominent part in the movement to secure such a measure.

Big Attendance Expected.

The membership of the Colorado Good Roads association now numbers, including active and ex-officio members, more than 2,000. In addition, all road organizations in the state will be requested to send representatives to Colorado Springs. It is thought, from inquiries already received that the attendance at the convention will reach close to 1,000.

The arrangements for the convention are in charge of the good roads committee of the Colorado Springs Chamber of Commerce and special preparations are being made for the entertainment of the delegates.

TROUBLE EXPECTED UPON THE ARRIVAL OF STRIKEBREAKERS

Women and Children Gather at Depot, Armed for Conflict

TRINIDAD, Nov. 30.—That strikers in the southern Colorado coal fields intend to make a demonstration of probable physical violence against any strikebreakers or persons brought into this district to work in the mines was the fear expressed by military authorities here tonight. When word was received at the Ludlow tent colony this morning that a trainload of strikebreakers was expected from Denver, a crowd of more than 100 women and children, armed with clubs and stones, gathered at the station to await the arrival of the expected train.

The mob was dispersed by a company of infantry under Major Kennedy, but the excitement at the Ludlow tent colony was only increased by the force used by soldiers. It is believed that the women were sent to meet the train in the belief that the militia would not use actual force against them. Military guards at Ludlow, Berwind and Hastings tonight were increased in anticipation of trouble.

YOUNG RANCHMAN ENDS LIFE BECAUSE OF GIRL

C. A. Sullivan a Suicide at Crews, in Presence of Young Woman—Unrequited Love Said to Be Cause.

The little railway station at Crews, half a dozen miles down the Fountain valley on the Santa Fe, was the scene of an early morning tragedy yesterday when Charles Alvey Sullivan, a youth employed on a cattle ranch near by, picked up his sweetheart's revolver and shot himself. He died almost instantly.

Unrequited love on the part of Miss Ruth Hollinger, and her refusal to marry him, it is believed, caused Sullivan to end his life. The young woman is telegraph operator at the little station and she and the young ranchman had been friends for several months. The [illegible] at the telephone board [illegible] at midnight and [illegible] was just before she had finished work that the suicide occurred.

The revolver belonged to Miss Hollinger, who keeps it within easy reach because of rough characters who frequently loiter about the station at night. Sullivan had remarked on more than one occasion that he feared for the young operator's safety, and, when it was possible, spent considerable time at the station when she was on duty so that he might protect her if his assistance was needed.

Farewell Note to Parents.

From a note found in Sullivan's pocket, it was evident that he planned to take his life before he went to the station to make his final plea to Miss Hollinger. It was only a few words, a line asking for forgiveness, and addressed to his mother, father and brothers. It read:

"Dear mother, father and brothers: Forgive me for doing this, but I cannot stand it any longer. Goodbye, and God bless you all.

"Chuck."

Sullivan was 2[illegible] years old, the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Sullivan of 1016 South El Paso street, and a young man of excellent character. He had been working at the T. N. cattle ranch south of town for some time but had quit Saturday night.

H. R. Galbreth, who relieves Miss Hollinger at the telephone board at 8 o'clock in the morning, was at the station when the suicide occurred. He notified Coroner Lawrence Beyle who investigated the shooting and brought the body to Colorado Springs. He said last night that there would be no inquest.

Miss Hollinger's home is in Washington and a sister lives in Colorado Springs.

"OLD SCOUT" WIGGINS IS DEAD IN DENVER

DENVER, Nov. 30.—Oliver P. ("Old Scout") Wiggins, one of Denver's most famous early frontiersmen, died at his residence here today at the age of 9[illegible]. Wiggins was a [illegible] of western New York state and [illegible] across the plains in 1838. For a number of years he was a member of Kit Carson's famous company of frontiersmen and served under Carson in the Mexican war, where he was wounded in the battel of Monterey. His cabin was one of the first built in Denver.

From 1848 [illegible] he was employed as scout guide and hunter for the immigrant trains across the plains, and his knowledge of the frontier extended through the length and breadth of the Rocky mountain region. For a number of years he has been living in retirement at his home in this city, and it is believed that his death was somewhat hastened by an old bullet wound, a relic of an encounter with hostile Indians.

STARVE BANDIT OUT, ONLY WAY

LOPEZ STILL IS BARRICADED IN MINE

Bodies of Latest Victims Recovered; Will Try to Smoke Him Out

BINGHAM, Utah, Nov. 30.—While Ralph Lopez, the slayer of six men, was attempting to batter down a bulkhead at the entrance of the Parnell tunnel in the Utah-Apex mine here late today, a posse penetrated the Andy incline and brought out the bodies of Deputy Sheriffs Douglas Halsey and Tom Mandrich, the victims of the desperado's unerring aim in a subterranean battle yesterday.

A surprising development late today was the report that Mike Cranovich, who shot his wife five times and seriously wounded her several days ago, was also a fugitive at bay in the mine and was cooperating with Lopez.

Two deputies on guard at the Parnell mouth opened fire with rifles when Lopez began breaking down the bulkhead and he retreated back into the mine after prying away one board. That hunger is driving him desperate is the belief of the officers, as he has been in the mine with only a small supply of food since Thursday.

Five Men Explore Mine.

Hundreds of Americans and foreigners begged in a dozen different tongues today for the opportunity to search the mine for the two slain deputies. But only five, led by Dr. F. E. Straup, mayor-elect of Bingham, were allowed to penetrate the workings. They made two trips, returning from the first with the blood stained hat of Mandrich. Then they rushed in later and brought out the bodies, which had been dragged by Lopez a considerable distance up the Andy incline.

The evidence that Cranovich was in the mine was disclosed by the officers in charge. It was said, however, that a friend of Cranovich has been supplying him with food in an abandoned working until Lopez entered the mine.

Will Try Asphyxiation.

Outwitted a dozen times since Lopez began his career of bloodshed on November 21, the sheriffs of seven counties, in council early today, decided to [illegible] to asphyxiate the fugitive with poisonous gases. Accordingly, all the 15 exits, except that to the Andy tunnel, were stopped with bulkheads. However, the generation of the gases was delayed by the failure to recover the bodies of the two deputies, but with this accomplished it was expected the plan would be carried out tonight.

The wife of Mandrich, who stood all last night and today waiting for verification of her husband's death, fainted when his body was carried out. Lopez' bullets so far have made four widows and 15 fatherless children.

Seven Shots, Kills Six.

A post mortem examination tonight showed that Mandrich had been shot through the heart. Halsey was shot through the lungs, near the heart, while another bullet struck him in the heel. To kill six men, Lopez has fired only seven bullets, every one taking effect. Four of these men were shot through the heart, while his bullets passed close to the hearts of the other two.

In yesterday's battle, although the deputies fired dozens of bullets, Lopez fired but three. Those who know him say that he shoots a revolver from the hip with equal accuracy. He possesses a perfect physique and classic features, and is known here for his quick wit and intelligence.

BLOCKADE RAISED AND 400 CARS ARE READY TO MOVE

Short Line Clears Tracks of Great Rock Slide After Nine Days—Half a Mountain Covered Rails.

After having been tied up nine days by an immense rock slide 19 miles west of Colorado Springs, the Short Line has been opened through to Cripple Creek. It is estimated that it will require more than a week to move the immense amount of tonnage, made up largely of gold ore, which has accumulated in the Cripple Creek district since the accident.

When traffic was resumed, freight trains were operated at intervals of two hours, and during the next day or two will be sent out at four-hour intervals, provided sufficient locomotives can be provided. Passenger trains will run on regular schedule hereafter.

The amount of tonnage held up in the Cripple Creek district by the slide cannot be estimated by railroad officials. All of the mines in the district have been operating at capacity, and it is said ore shipments alone, estimated at nearly 400 carloads, will require a week to move.

During the last nine days the Short Line has been operating passenger trains and freight trains carrying perishable shipments over the Colorado Midland tracks to Colorado Springs.

Upon returning to this city yesterday, the wrecking crew declared the slide was the largest that had ever occurred on the road, and one of the worst to handle. Apparently, half of the mountain had broken loose and started to slide over the tracks. About 250 men worked day and night on the big task.

OLD CONGRESS MERGES INTO NEW TODAY; BUSY SESSION AHEAD OF THE LAW MAKERS

Currency Bill Will Be One of First Matters to Receive Attention; Full Program Already Has Been Outlined

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—The interest usually surrounding the opening of a new session of congress will be absent from the events of tomorrow. While the first session of the Sixty-third session will end at noon and the second session will be ushered in by a formal proclamation of the vice president and the speaker of the house, the status of legislation will be little different from what it was when senate and house adjourned Saturday afternoon.

President Wilson will appear before the house at 1 o'clock Tuesday to read his annual message at a joint session in the house chamber. Aside from this formality, inaugurated by President Wilson last April at the start of the special session, and the presentation in the house yesterday of the annual estimates for federal expenditures, the first days of the new session will be scarcely distinguishable from the closing days of the old. For the first time in many years, congress will step over from one session into another without a break in the routine of business. The senate will meet at 10 o'clock tomorrow and there will be an intermission of only a few minutes at noon before the regular session begins.

Busy Sessions Open.

The significance of the new session lies in the fact that it opens the floodgates for legislative activity and inaugurates a period that promises to be crowded with the consideration of important projects, and prolific in legislative enactment.

The extra session just ending was limited, by informal agreements with President Wilson, to the consideration of tariff and currency reform and nothing that might interfere with those issues was taken up. The currency bill still dominates the situation as the new session begins; but the administration program of antitrust and railroad legislation, which is to follow, must share the field with [illegible] or more of other important subjects.

It is the hope of [illegible] that the currency bill can be disposed of in the senate by the 1st of December, and can be completed by both houses of congress and signed by the president in January. In anticipation of this, the plans for antitrust legislation will be taken up this week by President Wilson, in conferences with Representative Clayton, Senator Newlands and other members of the judiciary and interstate commerce committees of the two houses.

Strengthen Antitrust Laws.

The administration is to lay stress upon the proposed strengthening of the antitrust laws from the outset. It is proposed to have the general plan of action laid out in advance of the opening of the subject in the house and senate. Other important projects to be taken up in congress early in the year, and that will divide the attention with the antitrust bills, include:

Further regulation of railroads as to rates and stock issues, government owned railroads for Alaska, regulation of trading in cotton and grain futures, federal aid for vocational education, establishment of a system of rural land banks, independence of the Philippines, constitutional amendment for woman suffrage, regulation of working conditions for sailors, legislation to promote safety at sea, two battleship naval programs, establishment of a federal armor-making plant, good roads legislation, investigation of cost of living problems and all the annual appropriation bills.

C. & S. ENGINEER KILLED IN WRECK

CENTRAL CITY, Colo., Nov. 30.—James Duffy, an engineer on the Central City branch of the Colorado and Southern railroad, was caught beneath his engine and burned to death this morning before he could be rescued. Charles Ru[illegible], fireman, was thrown through the cab window and slightly injured. The engine tender jumped the track on a curve opposite the Black Hawk station and the engine was overturned.

BUSINESS MEN TO ACT AS RESERVES

Teamsters Walk Out at Midnight; 2,000 Men Are Affected

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 30.—The teamster's union voted unanimously late today to go on strike at midnight tonight. The union, which includes the commercial chauffeurs, has between 1,500 and 2,000 members.

A special dispensation for milk wagons driven by union teamsters was made at the meeting at the suggestion of Thomas J. Farrell, general organizer of the National Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stablemen and Helpers of America. Drivers of hearses are exempt from the strike order. Farrell also announced there would be no interference with the mail or other government wagons or automobiles, or with the wagons or machines of the express companies. He said arrangements would be made for delivering supplies to hospitals, so that there would be no added suffering among the sick.

Police Are Prepared.

The police department has been making preparations for a week to handle the strike. An order was issued Saturday preventing the congregation of crowds and the police were told not "to hesitate to use other means" if persuasion failed to prevent the gatherings. A system of military patrol has been mapped out for the downtown districts, and additional mounted and foot police have been added to the force.

In addition to the extra patrolmen, 250 business men were sworn in as a reserve force this afternoon. These men were provided with uniforms and guns and are quartered in Tomlinson hall, where they will be held until the strike is settled. The men are commanded by officers of the Indiana National guards.

For four months Indianapolis has been agitated with labor troubles which have resulted in the resignation of Mayor Shank, [illegible] Police Hyland and W. E. Davis, president of the board of public safety and a general shakeup in the city administration.

During the last street car strike there was so much rioting that the entire state militia was called out by Governor Ralston. The guardsmen, however, were not used, as the employes and the street railway officials signed an agreement to place their disputes before the state public service commission.

An approach to unanimity is found in the makeup of the backfield. Critics generally award Eichenlaub, the Notre Dame fullback, his position. Craig of Michigan and Norgren of Chicago were given the halfback places, and though keener rivalry was felt for the quarterback position, the ability of Dorais of Notre Dame to run the team and his expertness generally seem to make him the favorite.

Solon of Minnesota is given one end almost unanimously. Butler, Wisconsin, is generally selected for tackle of the all-western, but there is a difference among the critics as to his running mate. Des Jardien, of Chicago, is apparently considered by most experts the best man playing the position.

While there is a great difference of opinion, some of the experts select the subjoined players for an all-western eleven.

CADETS MAKE MERRY ON RETURN FROM N. Y.

Prichard Elected Captain of 1914 Team; Polo Grounds Praised by Players

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 30.—The Army football team, exultant over its defeat of the Navy eleven, returned to camp at noon today. The squad was met at the wharf by the 600 cadets and hauled up the hill in the ancient stage which has been used for that purpose for many years. Six hundred pairs of willing hands was the motive power.

An Army mule, taken from the pack train on duty here, with a "Navy" goat strapped to his back was a feature of the parade. The goat was bound with a sailors' knot, twisted twice by the army cadets to resemble the figures "22," the Army's winning score, and the "dead" navy mascot rested on a black pall thrown over the mule's back. Speeches and football songs were indulged in during dinner in the mess.

West Pointers are loud in their praise of New York as the place for the big service game and were much pleased with the arrangements at the Polo grounds.

The football squad elected Vernon E. Prichard of the second class as captain of the 1914 eleven. Prichard has played quarterback on the team for two years and got in every game except one of the Army's schedule this season. Brilliant forward passing, spectacular open field running and excellent generalship has made him one of the season's leading quarterbacks. He is 21 years old, was admitted to West Point from the Eleventh congressional district of Iowa in June 1911 and will be graduated in 1915.

Clem Crowley, the Denver Post writer, was the only man qualified to pick the team from a standpoint of having played four years of conference football and having seen every conference team in action. Crowley knows what kind of football is played in the conference, because he has played it and has seen every team in action. Yet he picks two Tigers, Taylor and Bowers. Neither Johnson nor Cartland saw Sutherland play. Sutherland is a good man but never in all his football career was he as good as Jack Taylor was this season.

However, when all has been written about the old bromidic selections, the annual pre-winter farce will always be with us.

The selections of Johnson and Crowley follow:

JAKE DAUBERT HEADS NATIONAL SWATTERS

Tingling and McDonald Have Best Records, but Not in Enough Games

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—Jake Daubert, Brooklyn's star first baseman, is the National league's champion batsman for the season of 1913. The official batting averages of the league made public today, show him third on the list with an average of .3[illegible] in [illegible] games. Of the two men again... outranking him, however, one, Tingling of Brooklyn, is a pitcher and took part in only 46 games, while the other, Charles McDonald of Boston, who played in only about half the season's games, is no longer a major leaguer, having been released to an international league team some time before the close of the season. Tingling, the top man, batted .[illegible] and McDonald .[illegible].

Cravath of Philadelphia is second among the regulars who played in 100 or more games, batting .341, and he also led the league in home runs with 19 to his credit. His team mate, Luderus, was second in home runs, making 18 hits for the circuit. In stolen bases Max Carey of Pittsburg is the leader with 61.

Heine Zimmerman of Chicago, who led the league in batting last year with an average of .372, is fourteenth on the year's list with a mark of .313. The champion Giants got but one regular, Meyers, with .312 in the select .300 class, although Arthur Fletcher was close to the mark with .297. The veteran Honus Wagner put to his credit the record of having gone through 17 consecutive seasons with a mark of .300 or better, just making the even .300 this year.

Of the player-managers, Tinker of Cincinnati leads with .317, standing eleventh on the league's list, the others being Evers of Chicago fortieth with .285, Hughes of St. Louis forty-first with the same mark, and Dooin of Philadelphia eighty-fourth with .256.

The New Yorkers lead in club batting with .273, St. Louis being last with .247.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 30.—"Jack" Coombs, the Philadelphia American League club's pitcher, who has been a patient in a hospital here since before the world's series last October, left the institution today. Coombs contracted typhoid of the spine during last spring's training season. Coombs expects to be in shape to join the Athletics next year.

ZUPPKE CALLS ON FRESHMEN

URBANA, Ill., Nov. 29.—Robert C. Zuppke, Illinois football coach, who will be on the job all the year, began work for 1914 today, when he assembled the entire freshman varsity squad and outlined his plans for the year.

Zuppke intends to hold outdoor practice on Illinois field before winter sets in. Members of the varsity will not be asked to report until January.

Basketball coaches of the "Big Nine" will meet in Chicago on Saturday to decide on rules and schedules for the 1914 season. Ralph C. Jones will represent Illinois. It is expected 12-game schedules will be adopted.

Advisory Board of Athletes for Mines

Following the Yale system, the board of trustees of the Colorado School of Mines have decided to appoint an advisory board of coaches for the season of 1914.

Eric Kistler, director of athletics at Golden this fall, will be at the head of the new board while Coach H. F. Buckingham will remain as head coach in active charge of the eleven.

The change follows the announcement of Kistler that he is no longer able to devote as much time to football as he has in the past. During the past season he was unable to attend many of the practice workouts and while Buck was supposed to have charge only of the line, a large part of the time he handled the backs as well.

The advisory board will consist of five sportsmen who will supervise all phases of the sport, including finances. When the important games of the year come around, Buckingham will be able to call upon them for such aid as he may desire in an athletic way.

The system has never been tried out in Colorado before and the outcome will be watched with keen interest by local followers of the game.

What has become of the old-fashioned man who called it pool instead of pocket billiards?

Official Correspondence on Strike Situation

Proposition by Governor Ammons

Denver, Colo., November 27, 1913.

Messrs. J. F. Welborn,
John C. Osgood,
D. W. Brown, Operators,
and
Messrs. T. X. Evans,
Archie Allison,
David Hammon, Miners,
Denver, Colorado.

Gentlemen:

Having listened to your conference throughout yesterday and believing from representations made that there is no material difference between you sufficient to warrant a continuance of the present difficulties, I desire to make a suggestion for the termination of the present industrial dispute.

The one apparently insurmountable obstacle to a settlement was the recognition of the union, and almost every other material difference between you hinged about that question, or is covered by existing law.

There is no law compelling the operators to recognize the union nor to permit the employes to exact that recognition. The Statute does provide, however, for the right to join a union if the miners so wish without coercion or interference. This law has been read to all the conferees and its provisions agreed to by each conferee. It reads as follows, and I suggest to you that its provisions be made the basis of a conclusion on this point:

> "It shall be unlawful for any individual, company or corporation or any member of any firm, or agent, officer or employe of any company or corporation, to prevent employes from forming, joining or belonging to any lawful labor organization, union, society or political party, or to coerce or attempt to coerce employes by discharging or threatening to discharge them from their employ or the employ of any firm, company or corporation, because of their connection with such lawful labor organization, union, society or political party." Section 3925, Revised Statutes of Colorado, 1908.

Bearing in mind the discussion on the other points involved, I suggest the following as a satisfactory solution:

The employment of a check weighman as provided by law, giving the miners themselves the right to choose their own check weighman.

The carrying out in good faith the statute making it unlawful to use or employ, directly or indirectly, the so-called "truck" or "scrip" system in the payment of wages.

The enforcement of the law for an eight-hour day in all underground mines and coke ovens, as provided in Chapter 95 of the Session Laws of 1913.

That all employes shall have the right to buy where they will without interference or coercion of any kind whatsoever.

That all employes shall have a semi-monthly pay day according to the custom now prevailing in coal mines over most of the State.

That all employes shall have the right to board where they please.

The enforcement of all the provisions of the Coal Mine Inspection Law of 1913 providing for the safety of the miners and the protection of the life and health of the employes.

That all employes now on strike shall be given employment except where their places have been filled or where they have been guilty of violence or other unlawful acts; and that where places have been filled, other work will be furnished as soon as practicable. Respectfully submitted,

ELIAS M. AMMONS,
Governor.

Letter of Acceptance by Mine Owners

Denver, Colorado, November 27, 1913.

Honorable E. M. Ammons,
Governor of Colorado.

Sir:

We are just in receipt of your letter of this date and hereby accept your suggestions for a termination of the strike with our former employes.

We invite them to return to work on the terms mentioned by you and assure you and our former employes that we will conform in good faith to all the suggestions contained in your letter.

Sincerely,

J. F. WELBORN.
D. W. BROWN.
J. C. OSGOOD.

THE REPRESENTATIVES OF THE MINERS DECLINED TO APPROVE THE RECOMMENDATIONS OF THE GOVERNOR.

HANISH IS FACING PENITENTIARY TERM

One of World's Oldest Religions on Trial in Federal Court at Chicago

CHICAGO, Nov 30 —In the United States court here tomorrow there will be staged the fight to keep out of the penitentiary the head of one of the oldest religions now maintaining temples of worship The chief priest convicted of sending obscene literature by express and the cult's books of "Inner Secrets" branded as unfit for circulation, the followers of Zoroaster in this country, Europe and the orient are facing the heaviest blow ever dealt them since the Mohammedans drove the Pharisees out of Persia

According to the researches of the United States district attorney's office here, Otoman Zar Adusht Hanish, convicted on Friday and now awaiting the result of his attorney's motion to appeal, is the successor of Zarathustra and the recognized high priest of every temple of the Zoroastrian religion Only Shintoism, the national religion of Japan, can claim to be older than the sun worshipping cult of Ahura Mazda, but there is no authentic record of the origin of Shintoism. Buddha was born five and a half centuries before Christ, about the same time as Zarathustra or Zoroaster, and Mohammed came a thousand years later.

Thousands of Followers.

In the United States and Europe there are said to be about 7,000 worshippers of Ahura Mazda, including a large proportion of educated and wealthy persons In Persia, about 8,000 remain in the immemorial monastery The Pharisees in India number nearly 50,000

"Prince Otoman" Hanish, who faces five years penal servitude and a heavy fine if the full weight of the law is visited on him, won his way to the head of the cult by charlatanism, according to the government detectives who have dogged his footsteps for two years. While the "little master," another of his titles, asserts that he was born in Persia 79 years ago, the United States officials here have the statement from Richard Hanish of Milwaukee that "Oto" is his son born in Germany is 42 years old and was a score of years ago a printers helper in Salt Lake City where he became interested in operating alleged spiritualistic seances

Says He Was Born in Persia.

Hanish says that he was a wealthy child in Persia when his parents, who were Guebers of Yazd, took him to a Zoroastrian monastery There he was made strong by the practices of the religion and adopted into the priesthood He appears about 40 and is florid and robust in appearance This he says is due to certain practices taught in Mazdeism as a part of morality

"Lewd, obscene, revolting," are the mildest words of the district attorney's office for these teachings The jury evidently agreed that this was so at least to a criminal extent but its verdict was accompanied by a recommendation for a light sentence

Hanish did not take the stand and no evidence was offered concerning his nativity or personal character Judge Mack will hear the motions for a new trial tomorrow

HALE RETURNS TO MAKE HIS REPORT

No Development in Mexican Situation, as Viewed From Washington

WASHINGTON Nov 30 President Wilson found no change in the Mexican situation today on his return to the capital

The possibility that the visit to Vera Cruz of Querido Moheno, Mexican minister for foreign affairs might mean the reopening of negotiations with the United States through John Lind awakened speculation again but officials tonight are unaware of it if Moheno contemplated such a purpose

The return to Washington of William Bayard Hale who conferred with General Carranza and the Constitutionalist chiefs on the border is awaited with much interest Mr Hale may get back [illegible] tomorrow or Tuesday His observations of the Constitutionalist movement will be placed before President Wilson and Secretary Bryan and are expected to be an important factor in the Washington government's future attitude toward the Constitutionalists

FEW CHANGES MADE IN THE OWEN BILL

Senate Reports on Currency Measure and Will Fight It Out on Floor

WASHINGTON Nov 30 Determined to have the administration currency bill ready for consideration by the senate as a Democratic party measure when the new session of congress opens tomorrow the senate conference of Democrats worked late tonight settling the disputed details of the bill As finally agreed upon the measure was little different from the draft presented to the senate by Chairman Owen and the five other administration Democrats of the banking and currency committee The conference decided however that if disputed points of importance became apparent in the course of the debate on the floor, each difference among Democrats as it arose would be made the subject of conference the party disagreements straightened out and the majority thereby united to act on the floor

The administration members of the banking and currency committee reported to the conference tonight on practically all of the disputed propositions in the bill

The conference adopted the recommendation for a plan to guarantee the deposits of banks which enter the new system

What Change Means.

The conference also adopted the suggestion of the committee that the federal reserve board, which will control the new system, should consist of the secretary of the treasury and six members to be appointed by the president. An attempt may be made to place the comptroller of the currency on the board

The conference, with the exception of writing in the provision for a guarantee of bank deposits, has made practically no material change in the draft of the bill presented by Senator Owen and the conference measure, it is practically certain, will be acceptable to President Wilson

Investigations to determine the cause of increased prices in food products are expected to begin soon as the session opens. Resolutions demanding such inquiries are now before congress Representative McKellar has introduced a bill to provide for more adequate regulation of cold storage operations and to penalize combinations that control food prices or parcel out selling territory and other measures of like character will be introduced this week

President Wilson has indicated his keen interest in the development of a system of rural land banks or credit agencies that would meet the needs of country districts more adequately than can existing commercial banks. The recent recommendations of the commission that studied rural credit systems of other countries have emphasized the need of such a system. It is expected that soon after the passage of the currency reform bill the work of devising an adequate system of rural banks will be undertaken by congress, and an effort made to enact legislation before an adjournment next summer.

Naval Program Outlined.

The naval building program of the year is expected to develop a new the fight on the so-called economy forces who last year held congress to the authorization of one dreadnought, and the administration forces, who will support Secretary Daniels' recommendations for two ships Other important phases of national defense are to be considered by congress, including the Padgett bill to give the naval militia a national standing similar to that enjoyed by the National guard, and the Hudson bill to create a council of national defense and outline the general military and naval policies of the nation

Plans have not yet matured by the administration for the handling of the Philippine problem It is expected that renewed efforts will be made early in the senate to pledge congress to a measure giving early independence to the islands This fight will be led by Representative Jones of Virginia, chairman of the house committee on insular affairs

The attempt to secure laws giving federal aid to vocational schools and to agricultural work, also will be renewed early in the winter These projects coupled with the fight for laws giving federal aid to the construction of roads in all states will unite forces that have been at work for several seasons to secure such legislation

The new session probably will witness more activity prior to Christmas than any session of recent years Democratic leaders purpose holding the senate to 13 hour sessions with no Christmas vacation unless the currency bill is passed before the time set for the holiday In the house meantime an effort will be made to dispose of several of the annual appropriation bills before Christmas so that appropriation legislation will interfere as little as possible with the consideration of the other matters

An Open Letter to the Telephone Using Public

Dea[illegible] [illegible]

The M[illegible] Teleg[illegible] [illegible] tion [illegible] nizes [illegible] public [illegible] closest [illegible] relationship [illegible] with its [illegible] patrons [illegible] It is [illegible] the p[illegible] Mountain States Tele[illegible] Company [illegible] through [illegible] [illegible] guratin[illegible] tising [illegible] series of articles both in [illegible] newspapers and in the f[illegible]m [illegible] statement[illegible]. It is our hope [illegible] campaign may mark a new [illegible] relation of public utility [illegible] to the public they serve. W[illegible] education to work both ways—that the public may learn the [illegible] about us and that we may learn how the public regard us and how we may fairly and efficiently serve the p[illegible] in other words, what is just a[illegible] to us and to the people and [illegible] the public that we will [illegible] remedy any wrongs we are doing if pointed out to us

We shall show you our financial affairs frankly and freely It so happens that our financing has been of such a nature that it is easy for us to clearly show to you this side of our affairs What we mean by this is that we have absolutely no water in our stock; we have no bonds nor any preferred stock and no mortgage of any kind upon which to pay fixed charges. We have more invested in our plant at its present replacement value than our issue of common stock, and we have no other stock issued than the common stock There are no wheels within wheels nor companies within companies to absorb profits We finance ourselves from year to year by selling our common stock to the people at not less than par in the states in which we operate

When we tell you the story of our financing, we will prove to you that there never have been any fortunes large or small made out of the manipulation of our stock—in other words no high financing has ever been done in connection with The Mountain States Telephone and Telegraph Company, or its predecessors The stock never has had any speculative value, it has been, and is now, simply a safe investment.

There is a great misunderstanding upon the part of the public as to this side of our business Persons with ulterior motives, striving for office, and newspapers wishing to give startling news (see note below) frequently publish stories of how rich certain officials of our company are Right now, this is being done in connection with the new revenue tax We suppose these stories grow out of the belief of certain of the public that the executive officials of our company own the entire plant. It is absurd, for these executive officials of our company are merely trustees of the property, for the stockholders, and none of them are rich men, nor have they a very heavy holding of the stock. It is true that certain reputed rich men have large holdings of the stock of our company—some of them being on our Board of Directors—but not one of them has made any money whatsoever out of dealing in our stock. The[illegible] have all [illegible] dollar in cash [illegible] the company for every share they [illegible] and they [illegible] it as a safe investment

There is [illegible] the part of the public a belief that the company is largely engaged in politics. We [illegible] this feeling is [illegible] the fact that in the past [illegible] point of self preservation [illegible] corporations were almost compelled to [illegible] politics But in these days when the tendency is to place all corporations and trust affairs into the hands of a central body such as the Interstate Commerce Commission and local state commissions [illegible] to deal with the conduct of businesses such as ours being in politics as believed by the public would be a foolish thing and entirely unnecessary This is therefore to state emphatically that we are not either directly or indirectly in politics in any way shape or manner and shall not be

We are going to attempt to give you the entire story as to our rates We have been told when stating to some of the public that we proposed starting a campaign like this that our efforts would be futile that our subscribers would turn out to be selfish and only look toward the end of getting as cheap telephone rates as possible We do not believe this We believe that the great majority of the public are inclined to be fair and that it is not so much the question of what our telephone rates are as it is that when we make a statement regarding them, and show our true financing that we shall be honest, and that the public shall know that we are honest That when we make a statement as to our profits and earnings, showing just where the dollar that our subscriber pays us goes, the public may know that we are not trying to deceive them or keep anything back that should be shown When we honestly do this and our position seems to be just and right we believe that the fairness of the public will sustain us

We are going to set forth the inherent difficulties of giving universal telephone service These articles and letters are not to be a piece of special pleading or adroit use of words but a clear, business-like setting forth of facts We hope, before we get through, both ourselves and the public will understand each other better There is at least no harm to be done in trying to accomplish this desired result.

It is our aim to educate, please and satisfy the public and to be educated ourselves It seems to us that every corporation has the right of self-defense the same as an individual. The public has the same right Listen to our defense and we will listen to yours No problem has ever been harder for us than just how we were going to let the public know truly about us, but we believe that no problem was ever more important to both If we really can make you feel that you are a partner in our business we shall have accomplished much A large part of the problem will be solved if we can only bring the public, through education to a full understanding that there is a mutual dependence between the public service corporations and the [illegible]

[illegible] public [illegible] the [illegible] We [illegible] an interesting [illegible] will [illegible]

Note [illegible] newspapers [illegible] in the newspapers headed United States Government [illegible] Upon Two Girl Stenographers [illegible] Where They Got Two Million Dollars to Form the Corporation Securities and Investment Company Then the [illegible] went on to say that this Corporation Securities and Investment Company was a scheme of the Telephone Company to further its purpose of monopolizing telephone companies etc

The truth is that our company has been met with a strong feeling in the State of Montana well nigh universal—that something should be done to relieve the citizens of that state of two telephone systems Public meetings have been held and votes taken that the telephones of one or the other of the systems should be thrown out Resolutions and letters have been submitted to us and we have started out to see what we could do to relieve the citizens of that state of this burden

We found that the Independent interests operating there also operated in Spokane in the State of Washington and in northern Idaho, and that the Independent interests doing business in Montana could not be bought, or sold, so as to alone cover the property in Montana but that the purchase must include their property in the states of Idaho and Washington The Mountain States Telephone and Telegraph Company does not operate in either of these sections and, therefore, is not responsible for telephone conditions there, nor does it wish to operate there, but we felt we must meet the situation in Montana and so, in order to be in a position to either buy or sell from or to, the Independent interests in Montana, there was formed this Corporation Securities and Investment Company, as a corporate company, to enter into negotiations with the Independent interests in Montana, which negotiations are now in progress, and, if possible, to buy these Independent interests in Montana, northern Idaho and Washington, and then in the end, if that purpose was accomplished, the Corporation Securities and Investment Company should sell to The Mountain States Telephone and Telegraph Company the portion of the Independent plants located in Montana, and sell to others the portion of these Independent plants existing in northern Idaho and Washington

We explain this so the public may know that in the above Foreword, where we say "there is no company, or wheels within wheels," we are speaking absolutely truly and also that this Corporation Securities and Investment Company, which was so freely advertised by the articles in the newspaper referred to is absolutely a legitimate and proper company and organized for the specific purposes stated

FOOTBALL EXPERTS SELECT STARS FOR 1913 ALL-EASTERN AND ALL-WESTERN ELEVENS

Authorities Agree That Material This Year Was Better Than for Several Seasons

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—[illegible] football season of 1913 ended [illegible] with the playing of the Army-Navy game here on Saturday [illegible] coaches, players and authorities [illegible] gridiron interest during the early days of December by selecting all-American and all-sectional teams. Many of the coaches follow [illegible] tion of pupil and opponent during the entire season with the [illegible] team always in mind and the [illegible] fruits of their observations are already available.

Several of the leading gridiron instructors and authorities are still puzzling over the problem, but the majority having confined their choice to eastern combinations, the all-eastern eleven by early consensus of opinion appears to be as follows:

Hogsett, l. e., Dartmouth
Talbott, l. t., Yale
Ketcham, l. g., Yale
Marting, c., Yale
Pennock, r. g., Harvard
Ballin, r. t., Princeton
Gilchrist, r. e., Navy
Wilson, q., Yale
Mahan, l. h., Harvard
Guyon, r. h., Carlisle
Brickley, f., Harvard

Western Teams Good

In the western football territory which includes Ohio state on the east extremity and the University of Nebraska on the other end, the consensus of opinion is that the section named [illegible] the [illegible] of the [illegible] mary were the [illegible] of selection [illegible] by various experts. An approach to unanimity is [illegible] in the make-up of the backfield. Critics generally award [illegible] Notre Dame [illegible] his position. [illegible] of Michigan and Norgren of Chicago were given the halfback places and though keen rivalry was felt for the quarterback position the [illegible] of Dorais of Notre Dame to run the team and his expert [illegible] generally seen to make him the favorite.

Solon of Minnesota is given one end almost unanimously. Butler, Wisconsin, is generally selected for tackle of the all-western, but there is a difference among the critics as to his running mate. Des Jardien, of Chicago, is [illegible] considered by most experts the best man playing the position.

While there is a great difference of opinion some of the experts select the [illegible] players for an all-western eleven:

Ends, Solon, Minnesota and Rockne, Notre Dame; tackles, Butler, Wisconsin and Brown, South Dakota; guards, Allmendinger, Michigan and Keeler, Wisconsin; center, Des Jardien, Chicago; quarterback, Dorais, Notre Dame; halfbacks, [illegible] Michigan and Norgren, Chicago; fullback, Eichenlaub, Notre Dame.

CADETS MAKE MERRY ON RETURN FROM N. Y.

Prichard Elected Captain of 1914 Team, Polo Grounds Praised by Players

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 30.—The Army football team, exulting over its defeat of the Navy eleven, returned to camp at noon today. The squad was met at the wharf by the 600 cadets and hauled up the hill in the ancient stage which has been used for that purpose for many years. Six hundred pairs of willing hands was the motive power.

An Army mule taken from the pack train on duty here with a Navy goat strapped to his back was a feature of the parade. The goat was bound with a sailors' knot twisted twice by the army cadets to resemble the figures 22, the Army's winning score and the dead navy mascot rested on a black pall thrown over the mule's back. Speeches and football songs were indulged in during dinner in the mess.

West Pointers are loud in their praise of New York as the place for the big service game and were much pleased with the arrangements at the Polo grounds.

The football squad elected Vernon E. Prichard of the second class as captain of the 1914 eleven. Prichard has played quarterback on the team for two seasons and got in every game except one of the Army's schedule this season. His brilliant forward passing, spectacular open field running and excellent generalship has made him one of the season's leading quarterbacks. He is 22 years old, was admitted to West Point from the Eleventh congressional district of Iowa in June, 1911, and will be graduated in 1915.

TAYLOR ONLY TIGER TO MAKE SPALDING ALL-STAR TEAM; POST PICKS TWO OF C. C'S.

Season Over for Selecting Men for Mythical Elevens; Plan Becoming Huge Farce

It is now closed season on all-conference selections. The Tigers in the selection of Pyke Johnson of the Rocky Mountain News, which is the Spaulding official choice, fared just as they did a year ago, one on the All-Colorado team and not one on the Rocky Mountain eleven. With the exception of Gartland, a Denver Times writer, Johnson was the only one to give the Tigers no positions on the conference team. Both picked Sutherland of Utah over Taylor of Colorado college for the conference team while Taylor received the selection for the Colorado team. The writers didn't want to leave Utah out of it and so dropped Taylor.

And Divilbiss of the Aggies is given a place over Taylor! Taylor played every game, nine of them, throughout the year and was the bulwark of the Tiger attack. Divilbiss was injured and out of two important games and it is hard to see where his playing could be better than that of Taylor. True, Taylor was a first-year man but if he delivers the goods what's the difference.

Clem Crowley, the Denver Post writer, was the only man qualified to pick the team from a standpoint of having played four years of conference football and having seen every conference team in action. Crowley knows what kind of football is played in the conference because he has played it and has seen every team in action. Yet he picks two Tigers, Taylor and [illegible]. Neither Johnson nor Gartland saw Sutherland play. Sutherland is a good man but never in [illegible] his football career was he as good as Jack Taylor was this season.

However, when all has been written about the old bromidic selections, the annual pre-winter farce will always be with us.

The selections of Johnson and Crowley follow:

JAKE DAUBERT HEADS NATIONAL SWATTERS

Yingling and McDonald Have Best Records, but Not in Enough Games

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—Jake Daubert, Brooklyn's star first baseman, is the National league's champion batsman for the season of 1913. The official batting averages of the league made public today show him third on the list with an average of 350 in 139 games. Of the two men nominally outranking him, however, one, Yingling of Brooklyn, is a pitcher and took part in only 40 games, while the other, Charles McDonald of Boston, who played in only about half the season's games, is no longer a major leaguer, having been released to an international league team some time before the close of the season. Yingling, the top man, batted 383 and McDonald 35[illegible].

Cravath of Philadelphia is second among the regulars who played in 100 or more games, batting 341, and he also led the league in home runs with 19 to his credit. His team mate, Luderus, was a second in home runs, making 18 hits for the circuit. In stolen bases Max Carey of Pittsburg is the leader with 61.

Heinie Zimmerman of Chicago, who led the league in batting last year with an average of 372, is fourteenth on the year's list with a mark of 313. The champion Giants got but one regular, Meyers, with .312 in the select 300, although Arthur Fletcher was close to the mark with 297. The veteran Honus Wagner put to his credit the record of having gone through 17 consecutive seasons with a mark of 300 or better, just making the even [illegible] this year.

Of the player managers, Tinker of Cincinnati leads with 317, standing eleventh on the league's list, the others being Evers of Chicago fortieth with 285, Hughes of St. Louis forty-first [illegible] the same mark, and Dooin of Philadelphia eighty-fourth with [illegible]. Official Correspondence on Strike Situation

Proposition by Governor Ammons

Denver, Colo., November 27, 1913.

Messrs. J. F. Welborn,
John C. Osgood,
D. W. Brown, Operators,
and
Messrs. T. X. Evans,
Archie Allison,
David Hammon, Miners,
Denver, Colorado.

Gentlemen:

Having listened to your conference throughout yesterday and believing from representations made that there is no material difference between you sufficient to warrant a continuance of the present difficulties, I desire to make a suggestion for the termination of the present industrial dispute.

The one apparently insurmountable obstacle to a settlement was the recognition of the union, and almost every other material difference between you hinged about that question, or is covered by existing law.

There is no law compelling the operators to recognize the union nor to permit the employes to exact that recognition. The Statute does provide, however, for the right to join a union if the miners so wish without coercion or interference. This law has been read to all the conferees and its provisions agreed to by each conferee. It reads as follows, and I suggest to you that its provisions be made the basis of a conclusion on this point:

> "It shall be unlawful for any individual, company or corporation or any member of any firm, or agent, officer or employe of any company or corporation, to prevent employes from forming, joining or belonging to any lawful labor organization, union, society or political party, or to coerce or attempt to coerce employes by discharging or threatening to discharge them from their employ or the employ of any firm, company or corporation, because of their connection with such lawful labor organization, union, society or political party." Section 3925, Revised Statutes of Colorado, 1908.

Bearing in mind the discussion on the other points involved, I suggest the following as a satisfactory solution:

The employment of a check weighman as provided by law, giving the miners themselves the right to choose their own check weighman.

The carrying out in good faith the statute making it unlawful to use or employ, directly or indirectly, the so-called "truck" or "scrip" system in the payment of men.

The enforcement of the law for an eight-hour day in all underground mines and coke ovens, as provided in Chapter 95 of the Session Laws of 1913.

That all employes shall have the right to buy where they will without interference or coercion of any kind whatsoever.

That all employes shall have a semi-monthly pay day according to the custom now prevailing in coal mines over most of the State.

That all employes shall have the right to board where they please.

The enforcement of all the provisions of the Coal Mine Inspection Law of 1913 providing for the safety of the mines and the protection of the life and health of the employes.

That all employes now on strike shall be given employment except where their places have been filled or where they have been guilty of violence or other unlawful acts, and that where places have been filled, other work will be furnished as soon as practicable. Respectfully submitted,

ELIAS M. AMMONS,
Governor.

Letter of Acceptance by Mine Owners

Denver, Colorado, November 27, 1913.

Honorable E. M. Ammons,
Governor of Colorado.

Sir:

We are just in receipt of your letter of this date and hereby accept your suggestions for a termination of the strike with our former employes.

We invite them to return to work on the terms mentioned by you and assure you and our former employes that we will conform in good faith to all the suggestions contained in your letter.

Sincerely,

J. F. WELBORN
D. W. BROWN.
J. C. OSGOOD.

FEW CHANGES MADE IN THE OWEN BILL

Senate Reports on Currency Measure and Will Fight It Out on Floor

WASHINGTON Nov 30 Determined to have the administration currency bill ready for consideration by the senate as a Democratic party measure [illegible] new session of congress [illegible] tomorrow the senate conference of Democrats worked late tonight settling the disputed details of the bill. As finally agreed upon the measure was little different from the draft presented to the senate by Chairman Owen and the five other administration Democrats of the banking and currency committee. The conference decided, however, that if disputed points of importance became apparent in the course of the debate on the floor each difference among Democrats as it arose would be made the subject of conference the party disagreements straightened out and the majority thereby united to act on the floor.

The administration members of the banking and currency committee reported to the conference tonight on practically all of the disputed propositions in the bill.

The conference adopted the recommendation for a plan to guarantee the deposits of banks which enter the new system.

What Change Means.

This would provide after the new regional banks have earned a six per cent dividend on their stock and established a 40 per cent surplus, the excess earnings shall be divided half and half. One part shall be devoted to a guarantee fund and the other shall be paid to the government as a franchise tax.

The conference also adopted the suggestion of the committee that the federal reserve board which will control the new system should consist of the secretary of the treasury and six members to be appointed by the president. An attempt may be made to place the comptroller of the currency on the board.

The conference with the exception of writing in the provision for a guarantee of bank deposits, has made practically no material change in the draft of the bill presented by Senator Owen and the conference measure, it is practically certain will be acceptable to President Wilson.

HANISH IS FACING PENITENTIARY TERM

CHICAGO Nov 30—In the United States court here tomorrow there will be staged the fight to keep out of the penitentiary the head of one of the oldest religions now maintaining temples of worship. The chief priest convicted of sending obscene literature by express and the cult's books of "Inner Secrets" branded as unfit for circulation, the followers of Zoroaster in this country, Europe and the orient are facing the heaviest blow ever dealt them since the Mohammedans drove the Pharisees out of Persia.

According to the researches of the United States district attorney's office here, Otoman Zar Adusht Hanish, convicted on Friday and now awaiting the result of his attorney's motion to appeal, is the successor of Zarathustra and the recognized high priest of every temple of the Zoroastrian religion. Only Shintoism, the national religion of Japan can claim to be older than the sun worshipping cult of Ahura Mazda, but there is no authentic record of the origin of Shintoism. Buddha was born five and a half centuries before Christ, about the same time as Zarathustra, or Zoroaster, and Mohammed came a thousand years later.

Thousands of Followers.

In the United States and Europe there are said to be about 7,000 worshippers of Ahura Mazda including a large proportion of educated and wealthy persons. In Persia, about 8,000 remain in the immemorial monastery. The Pharisees in India number nearly 50,000.

"Prince Otoman" Hanish, who faces five years penal servitude and a heavy fine if the full weight of the law is visited on him, won his way to the head of the cult by charlatanism according to the government detectives who have dogged his footsteps for two years. While the "little master," another of his titles asserts that he was born in Persia 79 years ago, the United States officials here have the statement from Richard Hanish of Milwaukee that Oto is his son born in Germany, is 42 years old and was a score of years ago a printers helper in Salt Lake City where he became interested in operating alleged spiritualistic seances.

Says He Was Born in Persia

Hanish says that he was a wealthy child in Persia when his parents who were Guebers of Yazd took him to a Zoroastrian monastery. There he was made strong by the practices of the religion and adopted into the priesthood. He appears about 40 and is florid and robust in appearance. This he says is due to certain practices taught in Mazdeism as a part of morality.

"Lewd," "obscene," "revolting" are the mildest words of the district attorney's office for these teachings. The jury evidently agreed that this was so at least to a criminal extent but its verdict was accompanied by a recommendation for a light sentence.

Hanish did not take the stand and no evidence was offered concerning his nativity or personal character. Judge Mack will hear the motions for a new trial tomorrow.

measure has been acted upon favorably by a committee of the house. These bills, with the "seaman's servitude" bill which recently passed the senate probably will be the first measures of a general character considered by congress.

Investigations to determine the cause of increased prices in food products are expected to begin soon as the session opens. Resolutions demanding such inquiries are now before congress. Representative McKellar has introduced a bill to provide for more adequate regulation of cold storage operations and to penalize combinations that control food prices or parcel out selling territory and other measures of like character will be introduced this week.

President Wilson has indicated his keen interest in the development of a system of rural land banks or credit agencies that would meet the needs of country districts more adequately than can existing commercial banks. The recent recommendations of the commission that studied rural credit systems of other countries have emphasized the need of such a system. It is expected that soon after the passage of the currency reform bill the work of devising an adequate system of rural banks will be undertaken by congress, and an effort made to enact legislation before an adjournment next summer.

Naval Program Outlined.

The naval building program of the year is expected to develop a new the fight on the so-called economy forces who last year held congress to the authorization of one dreadnought, and the administration forces who will support Secretary Daniels' recommendations for two ships. Other important phases of national defense are to be considered by congress including the Padgett bill to give the naval militia a national standing similar to that enjoyed by the National guard and the Hudson bill to create a council of national defense and outline the general military and naval policies of the nation.

Plans have not yet matured by the administration for the handling of the Philippine problem. It is expected that renewed efforts will be made early in the senate to pledge congress to a measure giving early independence to the islands. This fight will be led by Representative Jones of Virginia chairman of the house committee on insular affairs.

The attempt to secure laws giving federal aid to vocational schools and to agricultural work also will be renewed early in the winter. These projects coupled with the fight for laws giving federal aid to the construction of roads in all states will unite forces that have been at work for several seasons to secure such legislation.

The new session probably will witness more activity prior to Christmas than any session of recent years. Democratic leaders purpose holding the senate to 13 hour sessions with no Christmas vacation unless the currency bill is passed before the time set for the holiday. In the house meantime an effort will be made to dispose of several of the annual appropriation bills before Christmas so that appropriation legislation will interfere as little as possible with the discussion of the other matters.

HALE RETURNS TO MAKE HIS REPORT

No Development in Mexican Situation, as Viewed From Washington

WASHINGTON Nov 30 President Wilson found no change in the Mexican situation today on his return to the capital.

The possibility that the visit to Vera Cruz of Querido Moheno, Mexican minister for foreign affairs might mean the reopening of negotiations with the United States through John Lind awakened speculation again. But officials tonight are unaware of it if Moheno contemplated such a purpose.

The return to Washington of William Bayard Hale who conferred with General Carranza and the Constitutionalist chiefs on the border is awaited with much interest. Mr Hale may get back to tomorrow or Tuesday. His observations of the Constitutionalist movement will be placed before President Wilson and Secretary Bryan and are expected to be an important factor in the Washington government's future attitude toward the Constitutionalists.

[illegible] The [illegible] all [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] the [illegible] [illegible] company [illegible] safe investment.

[illegible] people [illegible] the company [illegible] [illegible] this feeling [illegible] that [illegible] self preservation [illegible] politics were almost [illegible] [illegible] tendency is to place all corporations and trust affairs into the hands [illegible] central body such as the Interstate Commerce Commission and local state commissions [illegible] dealt with the [illegible] of businesses such as ours being in politics as believed by the public would be foolish thing and entirely unnecessary. This is therefore to state emphatically that we are not either directly or indirectly in politics in any way shape or manner and shall not be.

[illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] interest [illegible] that every [illegible]

We shall [illegible] financial affairs frankly and freely. It so happenes that our financing has been of such a nature that it is easy for us to clearly show you this side of our affairs. What we mean by this is that we have absolutely no water in our stock, we have no bonds nor any preferred stock and no mortgage of any kind upon which to pay fixed charges. We have more invested in our plant at its present replacement value than our issue of common stock and we have no other stock issued than the common stock. There are no wheels within wheels nor companies within companies to absorb profits. We finance ourselves from year to year by selling our common stock to the people at not less than par in the states in which we operate.

When we tell you the story of our financing we will prove to you that there never have been any fortunes large or small made out of the manipulation of our stock in other words no high financing has ever been done in connection with The Mountain States Telephone and Telegraph Company or its predecessors. The stock never has had any speculative value, it has been and is now, simply a safe investment.

There is a great misunderstanding upon the part of the public as to this side of our business. Persons with ulterior motives striving for office, and newspapers wishing to give startling news (see note below) frequently publish stories of how rich certain officials of our company are. Right now, this is being done in connection with the new revenue tax. We suppose these stories grow out of the belief of certain of the public that the executive officials of our company own the entire plant. It is absurd for these executive officials of our company are merely trustees of the property for the stockholders and none of them are rich men, nor have they a very heavy holding of the stock. It is true that certain reputed rich men have large holdings of the stock of our company—some of them being on our Board of Directors—but not one of them has made any money whatsoever out of dealing in our

We are going to attempt to give you the entire story as to our rates. We have been told when stating to some of the public that we proposed starting a campaign like this that our efforts would be futile, that our subscribers would turn out to be selfish and only look toward the end of getting as cheap telephone rates as possible. We do not believe this. We believe that the great majority of the public are inclined to be fair and that it is not so much the question of what our telephone rates are as it is that when we make a statement regarding them and show our true financing that we shall be honest, and that the public shall know that we are honest. That when we make a statement as to our profits and earnings showing just where the dollar that our subscriber pays us goes, the public may know that we are not trying to deceive them or keep anything back that should be shown. When we honestly do this and our position seems to be just and right we believe that the fairness of the public will sustain us.

We are going to set forth the inherent difficulties of giving universal telephone service. These articles and letters are not to be a piece of special pleading or adroit use of words but a clear business-like setting forth of facts. We hope, before we get through both ourselves and the public will understand each other better. There is at least no harm to be done in trying to accomplish this desired result.

It is our aim to educate please and satisfy the public and to be educated ourselves. It seems to us that every corporation has the right of self-defense the same as an individual. The public has the same right. Listen to our defense and we will listen to yours. No problem has ever been harder for us than just how we were going to let the public know truly about us but we believe that no problem was ever more important to both. If we really can make you feel that you are a partner in our business we shall have accomplished much. A large part of the problem will be solved if we can only bring the public through education to a full understanding that there is a mutual dependence between the public service corporations and the Note [illegible] newspapers [illegible] articles in the newspapers [illegible] United States Government [illegible] Two Million Dollars [illegible] the Corporation Securities and Investment Company. Then [illegible] went [illegible] say that this Corporation Securities and Investment Company was a scheme of the Telephone Company to further its purpose of monopolizing telephone companies, etc.

The truth is that our company has been met with a strong feeling in the State of Montana, well-nigh universal that something should be done to relieve the citizens of that state of two telephone systems. Public meetings have been held and votes taken that the telephones of one or the other of the systems should be thrown out. Resolutions and letters have been submitted to us and we have started out to see what we could do to relieve the citizens of that state of this burden.

We found that the Independent interests operating there also operated in Spokane in the State of Washington and in northern Idaho and that the Independent interests doing business in Montana could not be bought or sold, so as to alone cover the property in Montana but that the purchase must include their property in the states of Idaho and Washington. The Mountain States Telephone and Telegraph Company does not operate in either of these sections and therefore is not responsible for telephone conditions there, nor does it wish to operate there, but we felt we must meet the situation in Montana and so, in order to be in a position to either buy or sell from or to, the Independent interests in Montana there was formed this Corporation Securities and Investment Company as a corporate company to enter into negotiations with the Independent interests in Montana, which negotiations are now in progress, and if possible, to buy these Independent interests in Montana, northern Idaho and Washington and then in the end if that purpose was accomplished, the Corporation Securities and Investment Company should sell to The Mountain States Telephone and Telegraph Company the portion of the Independent plants located in Montana, and sell to others the portion of these Independent plants existing in northern Idaho and Washington.

We explain this so the public may know that in the above Foreword where we say "there is no company or wheels within wheels, we are speaking absolutely truly and also that this Corporation Securities and Investment Company which was so freely advertised by the articles in the newspaper referred to is absolutely a legitimate and proper company and organized for the specific purposes stated.

LEGAL VERBOSITY

SOMEBODY with the gift of epigram once said that language was given man to conceal his thoughts. The legal profession of America has adopted this as its motto and developed the art of smothering an idea in words to such a degree that any experienced lawyer can easily write a brief, or indictment, or opinion, or other legal document ten thousand words long which may mean anything or nothing. It can be read forward or backward, or from the middle toward both ends, and be no more ambiguous one way than the other. A court can construe it in any way it sees fit or refuse to construe it at all, and be perfectly justified in its position.

That is the way a great many of our laws are written, and it is the way some of our most celebrated court decisions were prepared. Incidentally, it is the reason so many of our laws are worthless, and it explains why some decisions twenty years old are still being mulled over by other and higher and presumably wiser courts in vain attempts to find out what, if anything, they mean.

Which remarks are suggested by the publication in the New York Times of two sample indictments for murder and other crimes. They were drawn by the same man, District Attorney James C. Cropsey, of Kings County, New York. The first is the form which has heretofore been used by him, and is still used, substantially as here given, throughout the country. It contains 911 words. The second, which contains only 60 words, has been adopted by Mr. Cropsey because it "contains all that is essential and at the same time is brief and plain." Here they are in parallel columns:

"The Grand Jury of the County of Kings by this indictment, accuses John Johnson of the crime of murder in the first degree, committed as follows:

"The said John Johnson late of the Borough of Brooklyn, of the City of New York, in the county aforesaid, on the fifteenth day of October, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and nine, at the borough, city and county aforesaid, with force and arms, in and upon one Peter Smith, willfully, designedly, premeditatedly, feloniously, and from a deliberate and premeditated design to effect the death of said Peter Smith, did make an assault;

"And the said John Johnson a certain pistol then and there charged and loaded with gun powder and one leaden bullet, which said pistol he the said John Johnson in his right hand then and there had and held, then and there willfully, deliberately, premeditatedly, feloniously and from a deliberate and premeditated design to effect the death of the said Peter Smith did discharge and shoot off, to, at, against, and upon the said Peter Smith, and the said John Johnson, with the leaden bullet aforesaid out of the pistol aforesaid, then and there by the force of the gun powder aforesaid, which said John Johnson shot off and discharged as aforesaid, then, there willfully, deliberately, premeditatedly, feloniously and from a deliberate and premeditated design to effect the death of said Peter Smith, did strike, penetrate and wound him, the said Peter Smith, in and upon the [illegible] him [illegible] parts of him, the said Peter Smith

"The Grand Jury of the County of Kings by this indictment accuse the defendant of the crime of murder in the first degree committed as follows:

"The defendant on October 15, 1909, in the County of Kings, willfully, feloniously, and of malice aforethought, shot Peter Smith with a revolver, thereby inflicting injuries of which he died on October 18, 1909."

Ten years ago the State Supreme Court of Missouri reversed the decision of a lower court which had convicted a certain millionaire boodler of bribery in one of the cases brought by Circuit Attorney Folk of St. Louis. The Supreme Court gave as its reason that the word "the" immediately preceding the word "state" was omitted from a sentence in the indictment [illegible] have read "... contrary to the peace and dignity of the State of Missouri." Result, the convicted grafter went scot free.

Now if the machinery of justice had deliberately been set to work to muddle the case against John Johnson in a tangle of meaningless words and phrases so hopelessly that a clever and unscrupulous lawyer could easily find a loophole through which to boost him to freedom, however plain might be the evidences of his guilt, the first form of indictment here quoted would be ideal. It happens, though, that there are a few people who still cling to the old-fashioned belief that the primary purpose of the courts is to administer real, not technical, justice. Apparently, District Attorney Cropsey is one of them, and it would mark a long step forward is his example were followed by court officials everywhere.

THE CORPORATION AND THE PUBLIC

IT IS NEARLY a half-century since old Commodore Vanderbilt first used the phrase, "the public be damned," to express the attitude of his corporations toward their patrons. It remained the motto of most public service corporations until a few years ago, when an outraged popular sentiment forced a change. Now the corporations that come in closest contact with their customers, such as telephone, light, gas, and traction companies, are hustling to make friends with the dear people. They have learned that friendship can be made a very valuable asset in any business.

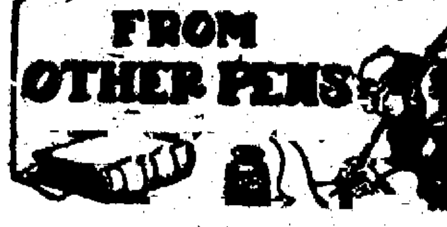

This is brought to mind by the Mountain States Telephone and Telegraph Company's announcement that it is about to launch "what may be termed an advertising educational series of articles," which it hopes "may mark a new era in the relation of public utility corporations to the public they serve." The company declares that it will "show you our financial affairs frankly and freely," and "convince the public that we will voluntarily remedy any wrongs we are doing, if pointed out to us."

Of course the value of these confessions, or confidences, depends on the degree of sincerity back of them. At any rate it is a gratifying thing to find a big public utility corporation taking this stand, and its advertisements should make interesting reading.

KENEHAN AND THE MILITIA

THE national guardsmen in the southern strike district who burned Auditor Kenehan in effigy probably thought they had adopted a smart and effective method of showing their resentment toward the official who has temporarily deprived them of their pay. But they did more than this. Burning in effigy is the final expression of contempt, the most despicable insult that can be offered an individual publicly. Kenehan's course has been thoroughly reprehensible, but it has not justified such treatment, and by resorting to this method of showing their dislike the militiamen overstepped the bounds of decency and created sympathy for him, and at the same time brought reproach upon themselves.

Moreover, it was a serious breach of military discipline. The State Militia invites public respect as our citizen soldiery. It wishes to be seriously considered as a body of sober, clear-thinking men who can be depended upon at all times to discharge their duty of impartially protecting life and property. The Militia is an important arm of the law, yet it affords a sorry spectacle when it degenerates into a mob who burn in effigy an official of the State and that for purely personal reasons.

THE RIO GRANDE

BY GEORGE FITCH

Author of "At Good Old Siwash"

The Rio Grande is a long, medium-sized, meandering river which forms the southern boundary of civilization in North America.

It is one of the world's most peculiar rivers. In places it can be waded with ease by chickens, and boatmen make good money poling travelers across in small flat-bottomed boats. But civilization cannot navigate it. While man and beast are swarming across it cheerfully and with such ease as to make the customs officers scratch their heads and look extremely dubious as civilization remains on the north shore yelling for help. And no one seems able to come forward with said help.

"His choice of being shot while escaping or while refusing to escape."

The Rio Grande is only a quarter of a mile in width, and is profusely decorated with sandbars. There are plenty of bridges across it, and one may insert himself into a parlor car and ride from shore to shore for a quarter. Yet the free and unrestricted ballot, general education, the habeas corpus, and most of the ten commandments have never gotten across it from north to south with any degree of success.

On the other hand, the bull fight, the political dictator and the pulque mill have remained permanently on the south side.

So have the rurale, the Yaqui Indian agent and the beneficent law which permits the authorities to give a political prisoner his choice of being shot while escaping or while refusing to escape.

It will thus be seen that while the Rio Grande has worked wonders for the country north of it, it is exceedingly hard on the people who are so unfortunate as to reside south of it and who do not possess the necessary car fare and bridge tolls.

In fact, humanity would suggest that the Rio Grande should be moved immediately to a point several hundred miles south in order that at least a portion of Mexico may be admitted to the beneficent atmosphere which prevails on the north side.

The Rio Grande itself recognizes the virtue of this suggestion occasionally by shifting its channel and transferring large slices of Mexican territory to its north side.

If only all governments were as wise as some rivers!

When Candor Pays

BY RUTH CAMERON

That rule of etiquette which requires that one suppress one's real preferences and even tell white lies, in order not to hurt another person's feelings, is often more honored in the breach than in the observance.

For instance, I once invited a friend to whom I felt indebted to accompany me on a pleasure trip. She accepted with apparent delight. On the day set for the excursion, I was feeling extremely miserable and would have given almost anything to stay at home on my own veranda. The bare idea of the long hot day on train and trolley was agony to me. But I went. You see I remembered the delight with which my friend had accepted and I couldn't bear to disappoint her. The other day I heard through roundabout channels that my friend particularly dislikes such trips, and had accepted my invitation solely because she did not want to hurt my [illegible]

ODDS AND ENDS

One can almost wish the move to recall Governor Ammons were started by the quick-tempered, ill-advised engineers and firemen of southern Colorado, just for the purpose of showing them and also the governor that the people really stand back of him.—Boulder Herald.

But what if they should fail to stand back of him?

Recent developments relating to the Frisco and the New Haven railroad systems have demonstrated that at least some railroad managers have loaded their properties with unnecessary fixed charges and expenses for the purpose of giving large profits to a few insiders at the expense of both the public and the general mass of holders of railroad stocks and bonds. Have these practices prevailed on the big railroad systems which are asking for an advance in rates? The question is one that needs to be answered before any advance in rates will be allowed by the commission.—Kansas City Star.

It is unfortunate for the railroads that the New Haven and Frisco disclosures have occurred at this psychological moment.

Strikes call unpleasant attention to the saloon as an institution in a coal camp.—Boulder Camera.

And yet neither Governor Ammons nor the militia attempts to close these breeding places of violence.

We have not noticed any mad rush upon the part of Colorado Progressives to tangle up with the tail of the g. o. p. Guess the dog will do the wagging if anything in that line is accomplished.—Durango Democrat.

In which Dave Day has exactly the right hunch.

The Grand Junction Sentinel says Costigan is only a braggart and Ammons a real executive. Of course what Costigan would do as governor may be subject for debate, but if Ammons is the ideal executive then what is to become of popular government?

The small coterie of leaders of the Progressive party in Colorado met in Denver yesterday and named the candidates for governor and United States senator to be voted for next year.—Grand Junction Sentinel.

In exactly the same way that Woodrow Wilson has "named" Charles S. Thomas, as Democratic candidate for United States senator. They must all go before the primaries.

The Trinidad Chronicle-News commends the proposition of the Philadelphia Public Ledger that respect for authority is the vital need of America. Isn't the first essential an authority that is entitled to respect? For instance, isn't the violence in the southern coal fields the logical result of the corruption and graft that have existed there for years?

Everything is tending to show a return to Republicanism. The majority voters are becoming tired of continued Democratic misrule like that of Kenehan.—Durango Herald.

It's true conditions are bad enough, but are they worse than in the days of Peabody? What Colorado needs is the Progressive party.

"Strike Will Be Settled Tomorrow," reads a headline in a day-old exchange. That's when Wilson will settle things in Mexico, too.

The committee found that the average of the men working in the coal mines ranged from $3.58 to $4.32, or in round numbers the average is about $4.00 per day.—Boulder News.

The committee found no such thing. It found that men do make those wages, gross, when they work—but last year the mines of the state worked, on the average, only 191 days, and miners, instead of making $4 per day, did not average, throughout the year, net, much over $2, if that much. It's strange how easily the operators impose on some well-meaning newspapers.

Mr. Costigan is about to repeat as the Bull Moose candidate for governor, thus transforming himself into Mr. Costagain.—Fort Collins Review.

Whatever the name, he's the man who is needed in the state capitol today to settle the coal strike.

Clarence P. Dodge of The Colorado Springs Gazette has expressed a willingness to contribute to maintenance of a soup house for such g. o. p. editors as have not brains enough to jar loose and avoid the Progressive avalanche. One can always expect real charity from a newspaper man.—Durango Democrat.

Boss Barnes claims he will have enough votes to organize the New York assembly. Which only goes to show how hopelessly boss-ridden and reactionary the Republican party is.

Water Power Trust Named Alabama Conservation Septet

Young Alabaman Causes Sensation in Conservation Congress When He Exposes Methods Adopted by Trust.

By GILSON GARDNER
(In Denver Express).

WASHINGTON.—How silly it would be to turn over to the states the forests, public lands, water powers and other natural resources owned or controlled by the federal government is well illustrated by the case of Alabama.

One of the most spectacular things that happened in the Conservation congress was the exposure of the way in which the power trust had packed the delegations from a number of southern and western states. Alabama was the classic example of their work.

On the floor of the convention a young man stood up and announcing himself as a member of the Alabama delegation, took off the lid. In a most sensational way he showed how the members of the Alabama delegation had been appointed at the instance of the Alabama Power, Light and Traction company. Governor O'Neill did the nominal appointing. (He is Underwood's friend and supporter). The real selection was made by the president of the Alabama Power, Light and Traction company. Senator Bankhead headed the delegation as chairman.

Delegation Packed.

This young man—C. L. Watts is his name, and he is secretary to Representative Richardson of Alabama and clerk to the house committee on pensions—at the risk of his job, told these facts:

The delegation, he said, in addition to Senator Bankhead and Congressman Burnett of Alabama, was composed of W. T. Lay, president of the Alabama Power company, J. W. Worthington, vice president of the Alabama Power, Light and Traction company, which is the holding company for the Alabama Power company and several other smaller companies; Frank S. Washburn, one of the directors of the Alabama Power, Light and Traction, the general counsel of the same concern, the son of one of the Alabama congressmen and [illegible] other members who at all times voted with the majority of the delegation. Young Watts' exposure followed an impassioned speech by Senator Bankhead of Alabama, who had deplored the failure of the attempted Coosa river dam steal.

"I, myself, was appointed at the instance of the president of this power company," said Watts, "but he didn't know how I was going to vote!" Watts showed that it was the plan of the Alabama delegation to prevent discussion of the report of the water power committee on the floor of the congress and to throw the report into the committee on resolutions. "They said to me," continued Watts, "what we want is to get the report into the committee on resolutions and then we'll fix it! And," he continued, "the president of the Alabama Power, Light and Traction company is the member from Alabama, on the committee on resolutions!"

The convention broke into a pandemonium of cheering as Watts concluded the dramatic statement. Neither Senator Bankhead nor any other member of the Alabama delegation attempted to answer the charges made by young Watts.

FORESTERS INSPECTING SOUTH PLATTE WATERSHED

DENVER, Nov. 30.—Members of the local office of the forest service have, during the past few days, been making a thorough inspection of that portion of the South Platte watershed which forms a part of the western boundary of South Park. The purpose of this investigation, it is said, is to determine upon the most efficient plan of administration of the watershed with a view to managing scientifically the timber resources of the area and at the same time perpetuate the maximum flow of the streams arising within the watershed.

According to forest officers, this watershed comprises one of the most important drainage areas in the state [illegible]

'DECEITFULNESS OF SIN' IS THEME FOR STRONG SERMON BY EVANGELIST PRATT

Revivals Yesterday Drew Great Crowds: 100 Indicate Desire to Become Christians

A powerful and searching appeal to sinners to at once forsake the old paths and take Christ into their lives was made by the Rev Benaiah Pratt at the Temple theater service last night.

A number of persons in the vast audience came forward expressing a desire to lead new lives and they were welcomed by the preacher At the various meetings yesterday nearly 100 persons indicated that they desired to become Christians

The services throughout were strongly evangelistic the sermons and the prayers and the songs all being directed to the end that men and women might change their old habits of life for the new When the sermon was ended the pastors went among the audience extending personal invitations, while Mrs Booth sang with great tenderness "While We Plead and While We Pray, Why not Come to Jesus now".

Preaches to 1,000 Men.

The same spirit was manifested at the afternoon meeting for men only at which nearly 1,000 men were present The Rev Mr Pratt urged them to forsake the paths of worldliness or of wickedness and give their lives into God's keeping Among the 15 or 20 men who responded was one man 7? years of age The sermon made a visible impression upon the men and was one of the best of the series thus far held

Last night's discourse was upon the subject, "The Deceitfulness, or the Mirage of Sin" and the text was "If you will hear his voice harden not your hearts through the deceitfulness of sin"

Dr Pratt drew a word picture of a mirage in a desert wherein the foot sore traveler sees a lake and flowers and trees He pursues it vainly until at last he falls and perishes by the wayside "But," said he "a mirage in a desert is an angel of light compared with a mirage in the desert of sin These deserts are all around to deceive and to entrap us Sin is the greatest mirage in all God's universe

These mirages are all around us They present sin in a beautiful and alluring form but we find in time that they are ashes in the mouth of the sinner and detestable in every way Sin puts all its goods in the show window but there is nothing inside when we go in Sin is always sugar coated but actually it is bitter and nauseating Sin deceives in promising happiness and pleasure but it never brought one moment of real happiness

Desert of Despair for Sinners.

The men and women in Colorado Springs who are pursuing the mirages of sin will find themselves in the desert of despair unless they repent and give their lives unto God's keeping Sin promised the Prodigal Son great things in Rome but he was glad to take the husks that the swine did eat It never pays what it promises

Sin promises liberty but it actually gives bondage and forges fetters that God can break Many a man and woman who says 'I am a free thinker and I want liberty' does not really want liberty but license they desire to do wrong that is contrary to the teachings of the word of God Liberty ends where God's law begins

The greatest danger of sin is that it promises to give liberty while at the same time it is silently but surely hardening the heart so that in time one will not care to be saved You ought to be a Christian because sin's power may put you where you will not want to be saved

God is calling today, today That word 'today' is used five times in this chapter to show God's desire and solicitude lest the heart of a man be hardened beyond redemption

At this point the preacher gave an oral demonstration of the danger of putting off conversion until late in life by asking those who had given their hearts to God after they were 21 years of age to stand up Only a few responded, but fully 90 per cent of the audience rose when he asked those coverted earlier in life to rise

Would Not Ask Forgiveness.

"He compared the hardening power of sin with the process which takes place in cement the older it grows the harder it is 'Not that God is not willing to save anyone who calls upon him in after life, but the great danger is that your heart will become hardened so that you will not call upon him at all

We sometimes think that if we could preach to the souls in hell that they would ask for forgiveness but I verily believe that not one of them would ask forgiveness because of their hardened hearts Why will you put off and delay when sin is so silently and steadily at work?

O, men and women, said he, knowing the deceitfulness of sin, what are you waiting for? Do not leave the building until it is settled between you and God If you have the slightest impulse toward God I implore you to follow it tonight and put your life into his keeping. Today,' he says, 'hear my voice' There is nothing but danger in delay. If you will but surrender your heart into his keeping every mountain will become a mole hill God loves you he is ready to save you While we plead and while we pray, why not come to Jesus now?"

WOMAN MINISTER ATTACKS 'EVANGELISTIC METHODS'

Rev. Charlotta Crosley Criticises Practice of "Scaring Sinners Into Repentance" in Sermon Yesterday.

Severely criticising the so-called evangelists for applying a meaning other than was intended to passages in the Bible for the sole purpose of "scaring sinners into repentance" during revivals the Rev Charlotta D Crosley departed her sermon at Christ Universalist church yesterday morning long enough to speak at some length on what she termed an almost constant practice

The Rev Mrs Crosley had chosen as her text "Prepare to meet thy God, Amos 4 12 After giving a brief character sketch of the prophet, and describing to some extent his book and particularly the passage on which she intended to speak, Mrs Crosley suddenly turned on evangelists, who she declared, twist the meaning of such passages for effect Speaking of this passage in particular and others in general she said

"Why men will spend so much time and energy, which might be better employed, in straining the meaning of not only this but other relative passages in God's word in order to work upon the emotions and more especially the fears of those whom they are privileged to reach has always been a mystery to me We have no right to force an application

"The text selection must not be excluded from this rule And yet how frequently, how almost constantly, is this done by those who are continually sounding its words in our ears as a warning to make due and wise preparation for other and future scenes than those in the midst of which we are living 'Acting on the mistaken idea that the dangers of this future are all the sinner has to dread and to escape, the seasons of special revival in church work are made to bear their legitimate fruits in scaring sinners into repentance.

"They are warned, and generally in thunder tones, against sinning away the day of grace are told that God has placed them in this as a probationary existence and that this, once passed, mercy will never again be extended that souls who die in their sins must forever beat themselves against the walls of doom their piteous pleadings falling upon a heart closed and barred against them and upon ears dulled to their cries for pardon and peace

"Without pausing to consider the patent fact that this idea is opposed to all that God's word teaches ... to his nature and character as the creator and sovereign ruler of the universe as also the nature and character of the government he exercises over this creation let us ascertain to what extent the text words can be made to support this idea

MISS AHRENS DRAWS BIG AUDIENCE TO PRINCESS

Scores Turned Away at Musical Club Concert Yesterday—Collection More Than Offsets Cost of Production.

Nothing less than a triumph was the appearance of Miss Amy Ahrens at the Colorado Springs Musical club orchestra concert yesterday afternoon at the Princess theater A triumph in every sense of the word because this accomplished young violinist played a difficult classical selection before an audience of 1,200 people drawn from the masses other than the music lovers of the city and made her a ... appreciated

Willet R Willis president of the Colorado Springs Musical club presented Miss Ahrens a beautiful alligator leather ... musician ... orchestra an appreciation ... that organization of the young musician's talent

Yesterday's concert was the most successful both from a musical and financial standpoint that has been given thus far this season More than 1,200 people were packed into the theater and scores were turned away Long before the concert started every seat in the house was filled Shortly after chairs were placed upon the stage and were quickly filled Even then the crowd surged down the aisles and packed the back of the house Few more could have found standing room

Financially, $122 06 was contributed by the patrons of the musical club concerts, more than twice as much as last Sunday's collection and enough to make it possible for the club to pay all expenses for yesterday's concert and place $37 in the fund set aside to continue the entertainments throughout the winter season If such a collection can be maintained the club will be enabled to not only continue the concerts but to make each longer than at present and possibly add features to the present programs It requires $85 to play one concert, and for the first three weeks it appeared that the club would be compelled to discontinue its entertainments because of lack of financial support Although the audience numbered more than 600 people at each performance the collection remained $41 $48 and $56—far from enough to pay expenses

More Concerts Now Possible.

However the surplus realized yesterday, together with the small sum already in the fund will permit several more concerts to be played And it is expected that Colorado Springs people will continue to patronize the entertainments and make the collection each Sunday at least $85 Because of the ordinance prohibiting Sunday amusements there is no place of recreation for Colorado Springs people on Sunday The Musical club is endeavoring to change conditions by giving the concerts and depending on the generosity of the people to support them That the collection taken at the door will be sufficient to offset all expenses and not compel the club to draw from its own funds to continue the free Sunday entertainments is shown by the manner in which Colorado Springs lent its aid yesterday

"We are more than pleased with the result," said Mr Willis last night "Of course Miss Ahrens drew many to the concert It is not often that a musician of such ability will play at a free concert and many took advantage of the opportunity to hear her. But colder weather and a rapidly growing interest in our entertainments aided I believe hereafter we will pack the theater each Sunday and will realize enough to continue the concerts through the winter"

THE COAL OPERATORS

Deliberately Pad Their Payrolls

To Deceive the Public

The following photographic affidavit of G. F. Wilson, assistant payroll clerk at the Bowen Mine of the Victor American Fuel company, shows how the operators misrepresent the wages of coal miners to the public:

STATE OF COLORADO. }
 } SS
COUNTY OF LAS ANIMAS. }

AFFIDAVIT.

G. F. Wilson, of lawful age, being first duly sworn upon oath doth depose and say:-

That during the months of August and September, 1913, he was residing at Bowen, Las Animas County, Colorado, a coal mine of the Victor American Fuel Company, that during said months of August and September, affiant was employed by the Mine Clerk, to assist him in making out pay rolls, for the reason that the clerical work was very heavy at Bowen, on account of the necessity of keeping separate books for royalty coal and non-royalty coal, that during the said months, affiant was thoroughly familiar with the number of men employed in said mine, and the condition of their work. That affiant has carefully read the published statements in the form of advertisements, which have been published in the newspapers, concerning the earnings of coal diggers in said mines during the months of August and September; that said statements are intentionally misleading, if not wilfully false, in these papers, said statements seek to give the impression to the public, that the coal diggers earn much larger amounts than they actually earn; that during said months of August and September, there were at least fourteen men employed by the Superintendent, one J.W. Bell, "as Spotters" in and about said mine, to find out who were Union and Non-Union miners, and who intended to strike, and who would remain at work, that these men were not carried on the pay roll as guards or detectives, but they were paid from $10 to $20 a month extra for their services as "Spotters" and the extra amounts were charged in their statements to "Brushing", viz, enlarging of entries etc. Further affiant says, that a number of the ... checks on said pay roll are checks upon which more than one man worked, this frequently happens for many reasons; quite frequently Moto. ... drivers will load coal for the digger during the noon hour, and other times, and the work will all go on the check number of the digger, who will settle with the Moto. ... or drivers at the end of the month; affiant further says that on check number one, of Jocko Krop..., in said published pay roll, was worked upon by two men, Jocko Kropta and Mike Mestoronthak at least fifteen days in each month of August and September; that affiant knows this of his own knowledge, and that it was so for the reason that one of the men, Mike Mestoronthak, owed a bill which he did not want to pay, or could not pay, and to avoid having anything in his name on the pay roll, he loaded his coal on the above check number of the man he was boarding with, to that of Jocko Kropta; that affiant is informed, and ... believes, and upon such information and belief alleges the fact to be that in the published advertisements of August and September showing what proported to be the earnings and average earnings of the coal diggers at said Bowen Mine, the earnings of all men who did not get out more than one car of coal in a day, were intentionally left out to keep up the average daily wage statement, that frequently men would be prevented from getting out more than a car of coal by rock falls, by cleaning up rock, by fixing tracks and other work known as dead work, for which they received no pay whatever, but which must be done in order that mining be carried on, that this is one of the grievances of the men, for the reason that the digger has to work harder at this kind of work for which they give no credit on the pay roll than he does at actual digging of coal, that affiant has worked in and around coal mines fortwenty years and four years in this District of Southern Colorado; that the effect of this omission is to raise the daily wage in said published statements, and give an erroneous impression to the public of the net earnings of coal miners, that also two days work spent on dead work are omitted from the statements so that a miner on Monday got out six or seven cars of coal for which he was credited with about $6.00 for that days work, and on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday he was doing dead work and again on Friday resumed the digging of coal and on said Friday earned $5.00 the published statements would carry only two days work that week ... total earning of $11.00 in two days whereas in truth and in fact there was five days work done in the mine for which the miners only received $11.00; further affiant says that the so called out side men earn from $2.10 to $2.40 per day and that their earnings are omitted from the published statements and average of ... and ... at the mine. Further affiant saith not.

erly worked up to. The comedy well defined and pure, the song numbers are up to the minute. Second, choice of a lead was carefully considered and no better one could be secured than Billy S. Clifford, who handles the title role. Clever to the extreme as a comedian. Third, in selecting a supporting company to a most capable lead, only the very best talent possible was to be secured and only needs to see the show to realize that such is the case. Each member back of Mr. Clifford has been especially selected for some one peculiar qualification necessary, when combined with the balance of the company, to make one complete whole strong in the presentation of the production. Here are three good reasons why this company is having such unprecedented success in their latest creation. They will be seen at the Opera house for a single performance this evening.

'Revival Truths' Is Text at St. Pauls

The Rev. W. E. Bennett, pastor of St. Paul's Methodist church, delivered a sermon yesterday on "Revival Truths." He quoted a passage from Matthew ... and pointed out four reasons for revival. His text was:

"But when he saw the multitudes he was moved with compassion on them, because they fainted and were scattered abroad, as sheep having no shepherd. Then saith he unto the disciples, 'The harvest truly is plenteous, but the laborers are few. Pray ye, therefore, the Lord of the harvest, that he send forth laborers into the harvest.'"

In explaining the four truths to be found in the text, the Rev. Mr. Bennett said:

"This passage presents four truths of supreme importance to the present age ... the needs of the people ... needs are as imperative ... as they were in the days of Christ. It presents the compassion of Jesus ... the same yesterday, today and forever. Yet it gives us a ... command to pray, which is perhaps our greatest failing of the ... this scientific age; ... justifies faith to expect results.

The Needs of the People.

This is an age of growing moral aspiration. The growth of sentiment against the saloon; the honest endeavor to suppress the white slave traffic, and to proclaim one standard for all; the universal scorn for business trickery; and the honest efforts being put forth to purify politics—are all signposts pointing to a better moral day.

It is also an age that is magnifying the virtue of social justice. Socialism stands preeminently for such justice between men, and Socialism is growing more rapidly than we should ever have imagined; the fundamental thought of the Progressive party is social and economic justice, and that is why thousands of good men who agree with the Socialist that this justice is the crying need, but who can not agree with his solution are flocking to the Progressive party standard; and the features for which the Democrats are most proud, and all other political parties, are the features promulgating social, economic and political justice among men. Surely the political yearnings of an age bespeak its most universal aspirations.

There is also a rich undercurrent of spiritual aspiration. Souls are weary of mere philosophy, and hungry for fellowship with God. But how to attain to their aspirations is the serious problem of these people. Effort, failure, faintness, despair! Scattered into various camps, and attracted to every new "ism" in the hope of finding relief—this is the case, today as in the day of Christ! What they need is what God has provided and so graciously promised in his word—the enduement of the holy spirit, and Jesus sees it today as he did two thousand years ago, and points it out afresh to his disciples.

The Compassion of Jesus.

Our moral leprosy, social injustice, alienation from God, with all their attendent sorrows is due to sin. Jesus need not be involved, but he chooses to be, for man's sake. So he leaves the bliss of heaven to share with us our sorrow—to "suffer with us"—and the "cross" and the "broken heart" are witness to his compassion. He was not willing that any should perish, so he gave his life to redeem us from our sin, and from its eternal doom.

The lesson is that every redeemed man ought to be filled and thrilled with a like compassion. With some reason, perhaps the cry has gone up, "No man careth for my soul." If the Christian church were following ... the command of this text, such a cry would never be heard again.

Here we are confronting by our most grievous neglect. We have lost the habit of prayer. What percentage of our church members wrestle in prayer; what percentage meet together for mutual prayer; how many have a "certain place" for daily communion with the Father?

We say that it is contrary to science to expect God to change his laws in order to answer prayer. But who says that he must change any law? Do we not see daily the superseding of one law by a stronger one? And, since prayer is the exact command of God, may we not logically conclude that it is his strongest law?

From Genesis to Revelation we see examples of God's definite answer to faith-inspired prayer. And from the days of the apostles to our last revival, we find, upon careful investigation, that the men of spiritual power are the men of prayer.

God encourages prayer by citing instances of remarkable answers to prayer in his Book; by are use of parable in which prayer is the key of power; by gentle solicitation and by firm command, by the example of Jesus and the continued practice of the apostolic church. God's arm is not shortened that he cannot save today as grandly as when three thousand responded to the gracious invitation of Peter on the day of Pentecost, but as in that conspicious instant, he works through the atmosphere of prayer. The call of Christ ... day to the church, is a call for prayer that the harvesters may be furnished for the fields already ripe unto the harvest.

Faith to Expect Results.

The fields are ripe. Men are hungry, some are hardened. Most are ignorant and need loving compassionate counsel.

Down in the human heart crushed by the tempter,
Feelings lie buried that grace can restore;
Touched by a loving heart, weakened by kindness,
Chords that were broken will vibrate once more.
